THE HILL SCHOOL
WHATSOEVER THINGS ARE TRUE
1851

Dave,
I knew you for
1 term, and in that time
I have found that we have much in common. I am happy to find that I am not alone in some of my beliefs and thoughts. I only wish we, in passing, had had time to talk.

Dial

In the Dials of ages past, before even the Senter and Groten dynasties, there was a section called Dialog. In the Dialog memorable events and characters were remembered. Anything that did not have a place elsewhere would go in the Dialog. This tradition was eventually swallowed up by remember whens, but this year we have decided to resurrect it from its crypt in the graveyard of forgotten traditions. It has had a long and peaceful rest between the Sixth Form Show and New Boy beanies. Many old customs have been laid to rest, but new ones are always filling the void and some keep coming back. Think of the joy of the Hill alumnus who hears that his son has been chosen as class Claus, giving that lucky Hillie the privilege of initiating the immortal "WHADUWE EAT!" chant. But if the lil' nipper is really fortunate, he could be picked as the hard-headed scorekeeper for the wall. Changes in school traditions have recently been accompanied by more dramatic changes: the once expansive SRA is now breeding ground for floppy fanatics, the rotating schedule continues to claim victims and the revered department heads have stepped down to make room for younger blood. The Dialog has also undergone some major reorganizational changes. In order to supplement the confusion caused by the rotating schedule, many sections have been rotated. The dividers are in honor of the bizarre grids that were found in the mailboxes this fall. But by far the biggest change in the Dial this year is that it is dedicated to a woman for the first time in its history. In this, the first of the new and improved Dialogs, these changes will be highlighted by including some memorable quotes from years gone by, in addition to the usual menagerie of tidbits and trivialities.

Historian David McCullough

Bissel Forum

During the early weeks of January, The Hill was host to Mr. David McCullough, author and historian. As the George Bissel Visiting Scholar for 1985-86, Mr. McCullough lectured to history, English, and humanities classes as well as to the entire school on subjects ranging from writing papers to George Washington. Throughout each of his talks, Mr. McCullough stressed the importance not only of studying history but also of reading and writing in general and the importance that those skills have in today's society.

From the beginning, Mr. McCullough surprised many Hill students with his profound viewpoints and his basic ideals of different societies. In Memorial Hall, he delivered a lecture to the entire school on the value of studying the humanities during one's time in high school and college. During his lecture Mr. McCullough warned his audience not to become too concentrated in any particular academic discipline. This message came especially as a shock to those who believed that, in the "high-tech" environment of today's world, one should specialize only in a field of mathematics, computer science, or business economics. The reasoning behind Mr. McCullough's thesis was that the fields of English, history, and languages allow for expansion into other fields of study, while at the same time endowing the student with knowledge and skills (namely the abilities to read, write, and research well) which never become outmoded.

The following day, Mr. McCullough spoke to all the history classes with the exception of Ancient History. He lectured for seven straight periods and each lecture had a different theme. His lectures covered such diverse topics as George Washington and Huey Long as American contrasts, the persecution of the American Indians, and the demented character of Adolf Hitler. In each of his lectures, Mr. McCullough discussed a particular aspect of history, literature, or culture, especially concerning the impacts of certain events and individuals on the world as it is today.

The next day, Mr. McCullough continued his discussions by lecturing to Fifth and Sixth Form English and humanities sections. Again his topics covered a broad range of subjects, from preparing research papers to great American women authors. Then Mr. McCullough departed the Hill, leaving behind in the minds of many Hill students questions which he had discussed.

One aspect of Mr. McCullough's visit which many Hill students will remember was his habit of ending every lecture with a quick succession of questions, in which he asked randomly-selected students: with which person from history the students would most like to talk, who they thought was America's greatest President, and where the student would prefer to have been raised.

Mr. McCullough's unique style of discussion and inquiry will remain impressed upon the minds of mass Hill students as an example of the scholarly approach to life, and it is an appreciation of this approach with which The Hill tries daily to imbue its students.

Sandford Arts Festival

The Sixth Annual J. Webster Sandford Festival of the Arts continued the excellent standard set by the previous five festivals. Given in memory of J. Webster Sandford '29 by his wife, Mrs. Sandford, and her son, Joseph Sandford '59, and the rest of the Class of '29, the Festival is regarded as the zenith of the cultural arts experience here at The Hill. The school remains indebted to Mrs. Sandford and her son, Joseph, for providing the Hill community with a week of cultural arts that would otherwise be unobtainable.

This year's festival commenced with the return of the Manhattan Savoyards to The Hill, who had performed The Best of Gilbert and Sullivan in front of an appreciative Hill audience in early November. For the Festival, the group staged an opera entitled, Mozart's Cosi Fan Tutte, School for Lovers. The quality of the singers and the originality of the music insured that the performance would not soon be forgotten by The Hill community.

Following the opera, Mike Croff, a renowned country folk singer, performed his best ballads in front of the students and faculty. Of all the acts in the Festival, Mr. Croff's was received with the most enthusiasm as were his folk music workshops that he held after his performance.

After Mr. Croff had performed his music, Frank Fowle, who had performed in the Festival two years ago, presented dramatic readings from Homer's Iliad. Especially enlightening to the Classics students, Mr. Fowle's readings further enhanced the meaning of the Classics already being taught at The Hill.

The last production of the Festival was the presentation of William Inge's "Bus Stop" by The Hedgerow Theatrical Group. Best known as Marilyn Monroe's debut hit, the play produced an actress who was enchanting, but no where near the beauty of the late great actress.

The meaning of the Festival goes beyond the cultural experience that it provides for The Hill. J. Webster Sandford '29 held The Hill and the experiences he lived here in high esteem. It was this esteem and admiration that he felt for the school that prompted him to want to repay the school for the fine education he had received here. However, he died before he could properly repay the school. Therefore, he left this responsibility in the hands of his wife, Mrs. J. Webster Sandford. Mrs. Sandford, with the aid of her son, Joseph Sandford '59, established a fund for the promotion of the cultural arts at The Hill. Since Mr. Sandford's untimely death in 1979, Mrs. Sandford and Joseph Sandford have been most generous in their donations for the Festival. For the past six years, it has been the Sandford's generosity that has provided The Hill with the quality artists that it has hosted.

This year's J. Webster Sandford Festival of the Arts was one of the most well rounded of the six festivals. Due to the work of Mr. Anderson and the support of the Sandford's, the Festival continued the tradition of excellence associated with the cultural arts festival. Appreciations are due to the Sandford's, Mr. Anderson and to those students who voluntarily aided in the staging of the productions. And a special appreciation is given to those performers who enlightened this year's audience. The combined efforts of these people provided the fuel that launched another successful J. Webster Sandford Festival of the Arts.

The Lawmakers

Student-Faculty Senate

Seated: C. Brogan, Dr. Finn, S. Archer, Mr. Walbridge. Standing: Mr. O'Shaughnessy, T. Truesdale, J. Pierce, Mr. Jones, M. Wilson, Mr. Becher, Mr. Price, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Pierre, Mr. Mercer, T. Achilles.

The Student-Faculty Senate is the chief instrument of student government at The Hill School. Its representatives meet regularly and openly to discuss school issues. They also set rules for the Hill community. The Chairman and the Secretary of the Committee are elected by its members, and serve throughout the year.

In addition to being a meeting for the exchange of ideas and opinions, the Student-Faculty Senate also provides the mechanism through which proposals for change and improvements within the Hill may be considered. Suggestions receiving majority support in the Senate may be forwarded as recommendations to the Headmaster for further consideration.

This year the Student-Faculty Senate closely examined the new schedule implemented this year. Viewpoints were expressed, both good and bad from students and faculty alike concerning the schedule and academics, athletics and extracurricular activities. Because of the new schedule, the Student-Faculty Senate at the request of Mr. Ruth's Hall changed the hours in the Grill to better accommodate the under formers.

The Student-Faculty Senate also sits as the Disciplinary Committee. This Committee, which is chaired by the Dean, convenes to hear cases involving the violation of major school rules. This year the board implemented a new policy that allowed students to petition to be removed from probation after 10 weeks from the time they were placed on the probation list. This policy proved to be a success because it reinforces and recognizes a student's effort to clear his record.

The members of the Student-Faculty Senate are the Dean of Students, the Dean of Faculty, Director of Studies, Director of Athletics, Coordinater of Counseling, Class Advisors, two representatives elected by the Faculty, the President, Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer of the Sixth Form, President and Vice-President of the Fifth Form, President of the Dayboys, Fourth and Third Form Presidents, and a Second Form representative.

Prefects The Beat Cops

The prefects have struggled through another grueling year of Second Form death threats, Third Form late night "toga" parties, and Fourth Form snow ball fights. Of course, the prefect's job is long and tiring, but for all his effort, he receives satisfaction. The prefects are the back-up system for the school; the cops on the beat. They also make sure anarchy does not erupt in the dorms. But anarchy provides the greatest excuses for everyday latenesses and breakfast cuts. "Well, Joe watered Don, Don put shaving cream all over Jack's bed, Chris was crying, and Fred was nowhere to be seen, and on top of all of that, I hadn't even started my Humanities yet." "Ah, O.K. But get things a little more under control."

The prefects of 1985-86 are the same masterful, power-hungry prefects of previous years. Yet these prefects had a little something special. When each prefect laid his oath upon Dean O., he did not fully realize what a different and time-consuming job it was going to be.

In remote Foster, Koehler, Apfel, Hunsberger, Kellerman, Rotenberg, Baitel, and Conger dealt with the most rambunctious boys the Hill has ever seen. Doc Iorillo was still called "Sarge", but he ran a fair camp.

Across the soccer field in Wendell, the home of Third and Fourth Formers, were Meiler, Rocca, Brown, Wiley, Morris, and Ealy. On Friday nights, Omar dressed up (who knows as what!) and lectured on his slam-dunk techniques. Morris and Ealy tried to fly out of their window as Rocca and Meiler were suspended from flight school because of their baby wings. Bird! Bird!

Down in Dutch Village, where no one ever goes, Mullaney and Lundy conducted their boxing lessons as they developed a new breed of "Hill boys." Thanks a lot, guys. Allen and Symonds were the "nicest" prefects: Symonds was always grinding at his desk: Allen was always in the Upper School with his Carolina Connection. They never made hallchecks anyway. Right next door, McGlinn and Sherry decided to open up a pawn shop until they got pawned themselves. Congratulations on the 1.8 average! Thanks to History class.

Markle House? Did anyone ever hear from Ziggy and Corro. We think They were lost in Gloria!

Middle School was the terror zone. No one got out alive, not even the mice. Executions were as frequent as chapel. No wonder the Fourth Form has more remember whens than any other form. Harrison and McNally had it all, a complete kitchen. With Willman as back-up and occasional substitute, they were known as the toughest prefects. Right next to them, new boy Mr. Moore learned the ropes from Baker and Geisler. McCarthy and Hagwood assisted the good doctor by shaping up their lowly Fourth Formers. Down on Mr. Livingston's hall was quite a variety of all stars. Grant and Dimples Diaz controlled one end, Park and Leonard, when he was not at Hilltones or on the phone, the other. The Middle School line up was filled by Vollmer and Gali. When they were there, they did a good job.

On the whole, the 1985-86 prefects were a strong group with out — standing leadership qualities. They needed them.

The Dance Committee, Reception Committee, and Student Activities Committee are valuable organizations within the Hill School community. The Dance Committee and the Student Activities Committee each pertains directly to campus life; the Reception Committee works in concert with the Admissions Office. The Dance Committee organizes several social functions monthly with girls' schools scattered throughout the Mid-Atlantic States. The major task for this group comes during the spring when the Sixth and Fifth Formers have their formal dance. The Student Activities Committee provides pep rallies, spectator trips to away sports events, games, casinos, ice cream feeds, and shopping excursions. Without this group, Hill life would be rather dull. The Reception Committee gives tours to Hill School candidates and their families when they visit the School, and receives and guides new boys on the opening day of the Fall Term. Thus, members of this group can make an impact on what kind of boy decides to attend Hill and how well he adjusts once he is here. All three organizations integrate to run Parents' Weekend. Though they often go unnoticed and unappreciated, these committees, through all of their work, contribute greatly to the School.

The advisors of the Dance Committee are Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Schoenly; Chris Guthrie is Chairman, Scott Schluter, Co-Chairman. Mr. Giamattei, energetic and reliable, anchors the Student Activities Committee. The Reception Committee is run by Co-Chairmen Ross Baker and Peter Geisler, under the direction of Mr. Reese.

The Hilltones' thirty-second year of singing began in September with the annual auditions held in the Music House by the returning members. Once the new singers were chosen to replace the graduated Sixth Formers, President Todd Bell, Vice-President John Zabriskie, and Secretary-Treasurer Tony Leonard led the group through an exciting year. The Hilltones continued their history of community service by singing at various nursing homes and social clubs, and for special occasions throughout Southeastern Pennsylvania. The highlights of the year included bus trips to Oldfields, Agnes Irwin, Kent Place, and Spence in New York City, and concerts for many home dances. The most enjoyable set of performances for the Hilltones was that in California. Traveling up and down the coast from Los Angeles to San Francisco, the group spent a night on a yacht and sang at world-famous Disney Land.

Mr. Lloyd Tuttle founded the group in 1954 when he came to the Hill to teach. He modeled the Hilltones after the Yale Wiffenpoofs, which he supported while studying at Yale. The Hilltones would like to express our extreme appreciation and gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle for their constant support and devotion to us.

Glee Club

The Glee Club's year was filled with a great deal of fun for its fifty-nine members. Members of the choral group spent many evenings and Sunday mornings practicing to improve the quality of their performances. The Glee Club sang regularly in the Chapel and sang a variety of different anthems throughout the year. The tradition of presenting the beautiful Christmas Candlelight Service was continued. The girls chorus from Agnus Irwin sang with the Glee Club for the Candlelight Service which was highlighted by the singing of Handel's "Halleluia Chorus" from "The Messiah". The Glee Club sang with the Glee Club from The Spence School in January, and then in the Spring visited their school in New York City for a weekend. While in New York City, the Club visited the Metropolitan Museum of Art and spent a full day roaming the streets of the city. In February, the Club traveled to Agnus Irwin to sing with their girls choir in a concert for the parents of their school. An added enjoyment for the Club was the staging of Gilbert and Sullivan's "HMS Pinafore" in May to finish out the year. The Club enjoyed a productive year and thanks Mr. Tuttle for his direction and support.

A New Beginning

The Jazz Ensemble

As the 1985-86 Hill School Instrumental Music Department began work, one question stood clear in everyone's mind: Was there a place for instrumental music at the Hill? The musicians, under the guidance of Mr. Anthony Branker, set out to prove there was.

Although some days were gloomy, the dedication of these select individuals was endless. The group worked four days a week and, in December, finally showed their talents to a Hill audience of students, parents, and faculty. This concert began an exciting year of performances at Chestnut Hill Academy, Agnes Irwin, the Shenandoah Conservatory of Music, and Hersheypark.

As the popularity of the band grew, so did its membership. Within three weeks of the opening concert, three new musicians joined, and the morale of the ensemble soared.

The talented musicians in the band are: Jay Collins, Karl Adler, and Vlad Melnick on percussion; Greg Wanamaker on bass; Sungho Hahn and David Weiser on piano; Hite Spencer on trombone; Matt Cheek and Paul Matuch on alto saxophone; George Matuch on flute; Eric Nordstrom and Chip Olson; and Shawhan Fox and Todd Bell on tenor saxophone. They and Mr. Branker have answered the question. There is a place for instrumental music at the Hill.

Ellis Theater Guild

New Horizons

This year, the Ellis Theater Guild, under the guidance and assistance of Mr. Willard Dix, had its most ambitious and successful year. From the beginning of the year, Mr. Dix and the growing membership of the Guild concentrated their efforts into making their club a more interesting and respected club.

Their first play, given in late October, was "The Duck Variations," written by David Mamet, who also wrote Amadeus. It was, indeed, their most challenging performance. Incorporating a complicated revolving stage and a new technique for makeup, the Guild performed their play to the delight of a large Hill School audience. Knowing the quality and potential of the cast and play, Mr. Dix entered the play in the 18th Annual Pennsylvania State Dramatic competition at the Bucks County Playhouse. It was here that the cast of the play, John Bicknell, Marc Cooper, Eric Kerchner, Peter Owen, Tom Sherry, and Bernhard Streitwieser, had their best showing. After all of the performances had been completed, the awards were distributed. To the joy of the cast, Tom Sherry was awarded the Best Actor award and Mr. Dix was recognized with a certificate for Excellence in Directing. Excited and pleased by their accomplishments, the cast returned to The Hill to prepare for the Winter play. The competition showed the Guild members not only that they had excellent actors and people to work with, but that they were beginning to attain the ambitious goals they had set for themselves. With this in mind, Mr. Dix held auditions for the Winter play, "Black Comedy," by Peter Shaffer, in early December.

The cast, consisting of Dom McCarthy, John Bicknell, Omar Brown, Bernhard Streitwieser, Jim Pototsky, and Susan Whittaker, Tracy Gilbert, and Betsy Hainley from Pottsgrove, started practicing in mid-December and were ready for production in late January and early February. Once again Mr. Dix called on the talents of the competent technical crew to build an elaborate scenery consisting of a three level apartment and a trap door. They also worked overtime in the metal shop building metal sculptures for scenery in the play.

With Dom McCarthy in the leading role as a poor artist, practices and productions were fun and ran smoothly. The show was a great success and put the Guild closer to attaining their goal of an ambitious year.

The Guild traveled for the first time to a one act play festival at the Mercersburg School where they acted in front of the school and many parents. It was a good experience for the actors and a way for them to see and participate in many different facets of acting.

Mr. Dix has made sure that the club's performances are more fully integrated into the school. He has trained students to act as well as to direct plays and also encouraged a regular Newletter of the Guild's achievements to be printed. To improve the quality of the plays as well as to increase the school's recognition of the Guild, Mr. Dix bought new equipment and chose much more challenging and ambitious plays than he had ever chosen for the Guild before.

The backbone of the club, however, lies in the technical crew. They have set up another workshop in the basement of the Arts Building to accommodate the magnitude of building required for the extensive and elaborate scenery that they used throughout their productions. They took new steps in set design and props that added to the enjoyment of the play by all that attended. Without their constant dedication, the magnificient scenery that was used in the productions would never have been. Their ambitious goals were achieved and added to the overall expansion of the club.

The club also sponsored out of school acting workjobs. These included summer workshops in acting theaters for those Hill boys who applied and were accepted. With this experience, returning students will add an extra dimension to the already growing theater at The Hill. To those who graduate with this experience, it will provide them with an opportunity to advance their interest in acting.

It was the Guild's ambition to provide students with a challenging atmosphere in which they could further their acting skills and interests. Through their participation in the club and in the outside acting activities provided by the club, the students successfully achieved the goals that they had set for themselves in the beginning of the year. With the knowledge they attained this year, next year's club should be more successful than ever.

The Hill News

Before the Spring takeover of the Hill News, the paper was in complete shambles. The previous board was full of 20-30 addicted, pizza-eating revolutionaries who were quite careless about the outcome of the News. Our board, prematurely stigmatized on account of those people, proved that we were capable of producing the finest papers ever to grace The Hill, an accomplishment recognized by the Headmaster himself.

Tom Haan, the Editor-in-Chief, was the only man left who knew how to lay out a paper properly. His hard work was the essential key to our success. Al Grant ran the headline department with close scrutiny by Mike "Layout Editor" Bernert. Sam Archer was a peg-leg for four months, which kept him from achieving his true potential. Nobody has better instincts for newpaper editing. Craig Forrest ran the sports department with monumental success. Chieftain cleared up our fire hazards. Amarak drew a cartoon or two. John Kellerman corrected our typos while Pat Basile ran a superb but now weakening photo department. Tom Allen blew in every month or so to write on the walls, chalk boards and floors. He was one of our truly dedicated leaders. Graham spent countless hours licking envelopes and opening mail. The alarming question is: Whatever happened to Seth?

This board is famous for the public scorn it received. Continual scrutiny by students and faculty alike was an everyday occurrence. A few misspelled headlines and incorrect identification of a prominent alumni's wife were major early errors. Our biggest blow came early in the fall term when our room was invaded by various faculty, deans, and the Headmaster. Cited for fire hazards, obscene chalk writing, and unfit conditions, the Hill News was practically ruined. What would have happened if they had seen last year's bulletin board? Probably dismissal or worse. Yet we, the leaders of the Hill News, overcame our setbacks and were able to produce many great works. Long nights were spent in our lair shunning homework, sleep, and yes, even TV, to produce the perfect issue. These late nights always proved rewarding in their own way when the final product came out.

Overall, we did achieve school-wide success as well as self-esteem. Six eight-page papers were outstanding achievements. Most importantly, we worked endless hours together and truly enjoyed every minute. All of the time and exertion put into the 1985-1986 Hill News were well worth the effort. It will always be remembered as a rewarding experience.

The Record

P. Collins, C. Downie, C. Tovar (Editor-in-Chief), S. Kim, A. Panya.

This year's Record editorial board was the successor of a year of quality writing. The artwork supplied by John Butler was phenomenal. Rob Lusch's poetry was excellent and David Hooke's photographs were striking. All in all, a good package with seemingly minimal effort. The board of yesteryear and support by the venerable Buzz assured The Hill that The Record would be both good and on time.

This year, however, the staff faced many obstacles. With the untimely departure of Buzz, the responsibilities were left in the hands of Sixth Formers, Paul S. Collins, Chris Tovar, Sang Kim, and Amarak Panya and Fifth Former, Chris Downie. With the active support of faculty advisors, Mr. Kowalchick, Mr. Lipscomb, Mr. Moore and Mr. Parker, and long hours of preparations, the issues were released.

The Record represents The Hill's student's highest literary work. The students write their stories or poems and then their work is reviewed and published in the literary magazine. The Record is a magazine for the students and is rich with articles and other media of expression contributed by the students.

The Record further developed after this shaky beginning and as more materials were collected from The Hill's community of good writers; it continued to grow as a literary force on The Hill.

At last, the book that we have all been waiting for, but weren't sure would arrive. Now is the time to tell the truth about the yearbook that we argued and toiled over for so long, The 1986 Dial.

We received our training, such as it was, working on the Spring Supplement. But the three months we spent putting together a forty-eight page magazine certainly didn't prepare us for the dangers of the big-time. Nobody cares whether the spring deadlines are met, whether the Supplement arrives a month late. We learned to relax; we should have learned to panic. To get through the January Jolt — eighty-eight pages due eight days after Christmas vacation — a Dial editor must know how to panic.

Nevertheless, we managed to get the job done, despite our early naivete. Editor-in-Chief Kevin Lahey — he of the quick trigger finger for the great action shot — led the Board, making the tough decisions and spending hours in the darkroom, much to the chagrin of Mr. Becher. It was a trying year for Ol' Maddog, trying to pass math, trying to get out of the darkroom after able assistant and Photography Editor Charlie Mahoney had locked him in, trying to recover the camera equipment and the rolls of Water Polo film after the crippling December rip-off, a theft that continues to enrage us.

When he wasn't making life miserable for Kevin or winging around the hockey rink, Charlie Mahoney was taking and printing pictures for lay-out. Lay-out, the dreaded lay-out. When deadlines arrived, Matt Hunsberger, famous for his tic-tac-toe, trapped white space style, and Paul "Isn't 'Pre-Planning' Redundant?" Wallace cranked out the pages. So did Jim Wenzel (Goon #1), Mike Vollmer (Goon #2), and Mike Apfel. Jim and Mike had the added responsibility of twisting Sixth Form arms to get pictures and brag-sheets.

Writer and Literary Editor Ross Baker, who sometimes had to scramble for last minute articles, assembled a rather talented and dependable staff of chroniclers to tell the story and sketch the characters of 1986. Writer and Copy Editor Tom Meyer proved invaluable in this effort. To those wordsmiths whose names appear throughout the book and whose work sets the Dial apart from other yearbooks, we give our thanks.

Mickey Renkert raised the bucks to pay for our errors and our extravagance, writing to all Hill parents, and scouring the Pottstown area for advertizers. Without him the Dial's debt would be as large as the federal government's.

And finally, we thank Mr. Long, who pushed us because he wanted to publish yet another award-winner, who tolerated our griping and moaning because he actually enjoyed working with us, and who panicked because we didn't.

That's the saga of the 1986 Dial, about head-honcho Kevin Lahey, about Matt Hunsberger, Executive Editor and stabilizing influence, about photographers, writers, artists, and goons, about deadlines and dead weekends, about late nights and early mornings, and pizza crusts and empty coke bottles, about printing the last picture and typing the last line of copy.

Obnoxious Brats?

Second Form

Since it would be unfair to label the Second Formers as a bunch of obnoxious brats without their response, The Dial runs this reply.

Although we are regarded only as nerds, we are very important here. In five years we, too, shall be Sixth Formers with the same privileges. So why is it that whenever a Sixth Former asks one of us whether he'll be here for five years and he answers "Yes," the Sixth Former just laughs? We are the new Five-Year Club. So why are we the ones who wake up each morning taking a shower in our beds? And if we are the butt of every practical joke, why are we called brats? For Sixth Formers to say we are seems a little obnoxious itself. Besides, in a class of twenty-four, eleven of us made the first and second honor rolls!

Maybe this response is biased, but it seems the Second Form, the Class of 1990, has had a great year, hardly one that a bunch of obnoxious brats would have. We are now looking forward to our Third Form year . . . and next year's new-boys.

Third Form

Spirit and Great Expectations

The Third Form started with a bang . . . Pat Mullaney's bed crashing to the floor beneath fearsome Zeke "Mouth of the South" Kobak, and the spirit never waned, except perhaps in the classroom (We Third Formers, at times during the year, accumulated the lowest class average in the School).

Our spirit dominated Lawrenceville Weekend, despite Claus Holmgaard and his "protege" John Gvodas. But the Sixth Form duped (doped?) Mr. G. and cheated us out of a hallfeed.

Our spirit led far-fields, i.e. sub-varsity, athletic teams to dominant seasons. Behind the golden hands of Scott Eidle, the blocks of the intense Mike Dizon, the defense of KKK (Ketchum, Kobak, Kozloff), the rifle arm of Major White, and the charges of Andre "The Bomb" Harris and Wayne Semisch, Fourths Football rolled to a 5-1-2 mark.

Junior A Soccer posted an outstanding 10-1-4 record, its best in years, and topped it off with a hard-fought, double-overtime, 1-1 tie against Lawrenceville. The team was led by the Day-boy connection of Kirk Ramer, Julius Dunworth, Cliff Comfort. Boarders John Marcus, Derek Stikeleather, Colby Grim, Joe Sparta, Brent Simone, David Salisbury, Pete Langren, and Davey "Long Vacation" Lewis contributed their excellent play to an excellent team.

The undefeated J.V. Water Polo team achieved its 15-0 season with the help of Third Formers Jay Collins, Matt Cheek, Chris Hagge, Chase Steinbuhler, and Jim Marquette. Third Formers "Diamond Dave" Azar, Tim Robertson, Pierre Yoo, "Joltin John Party Animal" Anderson, and Jake Ogden helped the J.V. and Varsity Cross Country teams to 13-1 and 14-0 records. Scott Croasdale and the Crushers pinned opponents all over the wrestling mat as the J.V. grapplers compiled a 10-1 mark.

Life in the dorms was no less exciting. If the Dutch Village crew (Johnson — Second Floor, Robins, Sherrerd — First Floor) were not terrorizing the feeble snow-throwing Second Form, they were preying on one another. Foster didn't fare as well because Rolfe loomed close by. Robins had many a score to settle with Prefects Mullaney and Lundy, and Mark Renzi found out that enticing the prefects after being "lectured" is not too smart. Johnson House was never out of the party, sometimes living it up a little too much. Sherrerd House wasn't the same this year because only six Third Formers resided there. With the likes of Ed Ware, continuing to be himself, there were moments. Foster, compared to the Village, was rather subdued, but with the illustrious "Pa" Poole, how subdued could it get? The Day Creatures once again raided Donner Hall and kept Mr. Dolas on his toes. Keep up the good work.

Add to our spirit our diversity. Dr. Chen and his marvelous machine, Tito Balboa, Mr. D. (fond memories), the "cheeseball," the ever-active Gorelick, the Texas Twins, Seda and Titus the ever-moody roommates, the "iceman" (courtesy of "Scoops" "Skippy" Kendis), Turner and his candy delicacies, Anthony "All Hands on Deck" Baggs, the Trinidadian Connection Perry and Paul, P. Kellerman and his personal country band, and the mastermind of video technology Smick. The result is an explosive chemistry.

The Third Form are the people who will soon be dominating the School. In fact, we got an early start. And we're cruising into next year with great expectations.

Unity and Diversity

Fourth Form

This year's Fourth Form, the Class of 1988, is very large compared to those of the past. Its 132 members come from around the globe — from Korea, from France, from Saudi Arabia, from all corners of the United States, of course — and the size of the form and its diversity give each student a variety of experience.

The Fourth Form contributes much to the School in all areas. It boasts many Major H winners in all sports and fine athletes on powerful J.V. squads, the future of Blues' teams. It boasts excellent students who set academic standards: as many as four Fourth Formers have recorded 1.0's during a single list. And it boasts participation in extracurricular activities, members of the service committees and such organizations as Junior Achievement, writers and photographers for the Dial and the News, Hilltoners, Jazz Musicians, and prominent actors in the Ellis Theatre Guild. The form clearly shows excellence in all of its endeavors.

Unity makes for excellence. President Ted Fetterman, Vice-President Chris Rockwell, Secretary-Treasurer Todd Truesdale, and Form Advisor Mr. Jones provide the leadership that pulls the diverse talents of the class together. Together, members of the form sold impressive football jerseys to raise money for the School's Scholarship Fund, and with the help of the entire Hill community, made a substantial contribution.

Now the Class of 1988 looks forward to two more bright years. We've gone halfway through, and so far our size and our strength have made our efforts quite rewarding.

Fifth Form

Most students here at Hill will have an average life expectancy of seventy-four years. Yet our lives, our future, will generally boil down to the most horrifying, distressing, bitter, and mentally-tormenting 260 day experience of our lives. This brief period of time is known, to a somewhat privileged few, as the Fifth Form Experience. But wait, it's not that important a year, is it? Well, why don't we take a little trip into the unknown and find out what the Fifth Form is all about?

From day one, colleges and faculty started slowly dissecting our poor minds to find out what makes us stand out from the rest of the crowd. We begin to find out what it is like to be up until 4 a.m. at least twice a week and what the term S.A.T. really means. The work load during the Fifth Form year can become so overbearing that participating in a Kneifel miracle mile around the quad can relieve a lot of academic pressures. If the pressures become so bad that it feels as if someone is stomping on your head, then someone probably is. Nightly hall stomps on the East side of Upper School have become a multi-hall event.

Fifth Form is also a year of liberation from Prefects. No more room check, light's out, or general rules whatsoever. Breaking the rules is half the fun of Fifth Form. The all night snowball fights of U.S. 2 East and the Pringle vs. McAnaney scuffles, water fights, and all out destruction of each other's room will go down in Hill School history. Matt Johnson's P.A.C. Man weekends will also be long remembered. A more firm spirit of leadership and domination over the underformers also presides when being a Fifth Former. In other words, you more easily get away with selling Saturday night movie tickets to new boys.

A certain attitude should prevail throughout one's Fifth Form year and that is to remember that the infamous Sixth Form year is close at hand. The most pressures ever experienced during a Hill School career can be found in one's Fifth Form year. But think of it this way; if you let your Fifth Form year slide by, it just may affect the rest of your life. So let's go guys, the pressure isn't on that much. Ha, ha.

Sports

Hitting the "Wall" Cross Country

The 1985 cross country team, like many cross country teams of the past, was again faced with the problem of having a new coach. Although reigning state champs, the team had only three returning lettermen. Meanwhile, other teams in the league, chiefly Episcopal Academy, had very strong teams with all of their lettermen returning. Still, the Hill managed to put together one of the best cross country seasons ever.

After dusting off St. Pius X quite handily, 18-44, they moved on to confront a hungry Williamson School team. Despite the efforts of their "courteous" crowd, John Coyle and Allen "SLYME" Symonds spoiled their fun by setting a new course record in our 19-42 romp. The team then gave Penn Charter an unpleasant trip home by marching seven men across the finish line to win 15-50.

Hill faced their toughest competition of the year from Episcopal Academy. Episcopal had all but one of their varsity members returning and also had great depth. But Jim Robertson, Matt Piva, and Andy Donato broke up this pack. After the smoke had cleared, Hill emerged victorious by a score of 25-30.

Next Hill travelled to Canterbury, Connecticut, where they bettered last year's performance by placing 4th against some of the toughest competition on the East Coast. The trip proved to be a success in many ways, as the team came home with 7th and 8th place finishes from Coyle and "Slyme," a coach skilled at hacky-sack, and a McDonald's poster which Piva "borrowed" as a souvenir.

Hill then breezed by Bishop Shanahan, 18-44, and Germantown Adademy, 16-47, while riding the "Crazy Indian" Baldia to victory. Baldia was ridden by Tom Meyer and the Aze to break up the Germantown pack for the win. Then, unexpectedly, Valley Forge asked to challenge Hill's varsity, because they had two good runners. They soon regretted their decision as John Coyle smashed their course record by 31 seconds, and their team, 19-40.

Hill probably turned in its best race of the year at the Selesianum Invitational. Paced by Al Symonds, 1st, Andy Donato, 5th, and John "Wrong Turn" Coyle, 7th, the Hill left mud in the faces of the other 12 teams in their division, taking 4 of the top 12 spots and capturing the team title. Also turning in a good show was the Hill JV, placing 3rd, led by Matt "Fraa" Ferrar, 3rd, Tom Meyer, 13th, and John "The Party Animal" Anderson, 15th.

Hill made a great show for the Mercersburg alumni by stomping the team, 18-45, on their home course. Coyle, Symonds, and Jim Robertson made it a tough afternoon for the fans taking 1st, 2nd, and 4th places respectively. After taking their 10th win over Academy of the New Church, 15-48, Hill faced Blair Academy, without its top 3 runners. But Tim Robertson, Jim Robertson, Matt Ferrar, and Mike Morris rose to the occasion, capturing 1st, 3rd, 4th, and 5th spots to win, 20-41.

In a final tune-up for the state meet, Hill trounced Westtown, 16-47, and prospects for a second consecutive state title looked good. But things did not work out as exactly as had been planned. In fact, things did not work out at all, unless, of course, you were from Episcopal. Hill had one of the worst races of the year, managing only a 3rd place team finish, despite Jim Robertson's surprising 11th place performance.

Hill then preceded to take out their anger on the unsuspecting Peddie runners, by taking 18 of the top 20 spots. Now Hill was on a roll, and not even Lawrenceburg could stand in their way. But when Buchan and Wegner of Lawrenceville took 1st and 3rd, things were looking bad for the Fat Boys. Then out of the muck of the Lawrenceville course came the blazing Hill pack of Slyme, Pives, Jim Robertson, and Dan to secure the 24-35 win.

For rookie coaches, Bretz and Curtis, the season was an unprecedented success and the outlook is promising for yet another undefeated season when the Fat Boys, Volume II comes back!

Seven, One, and One! Football

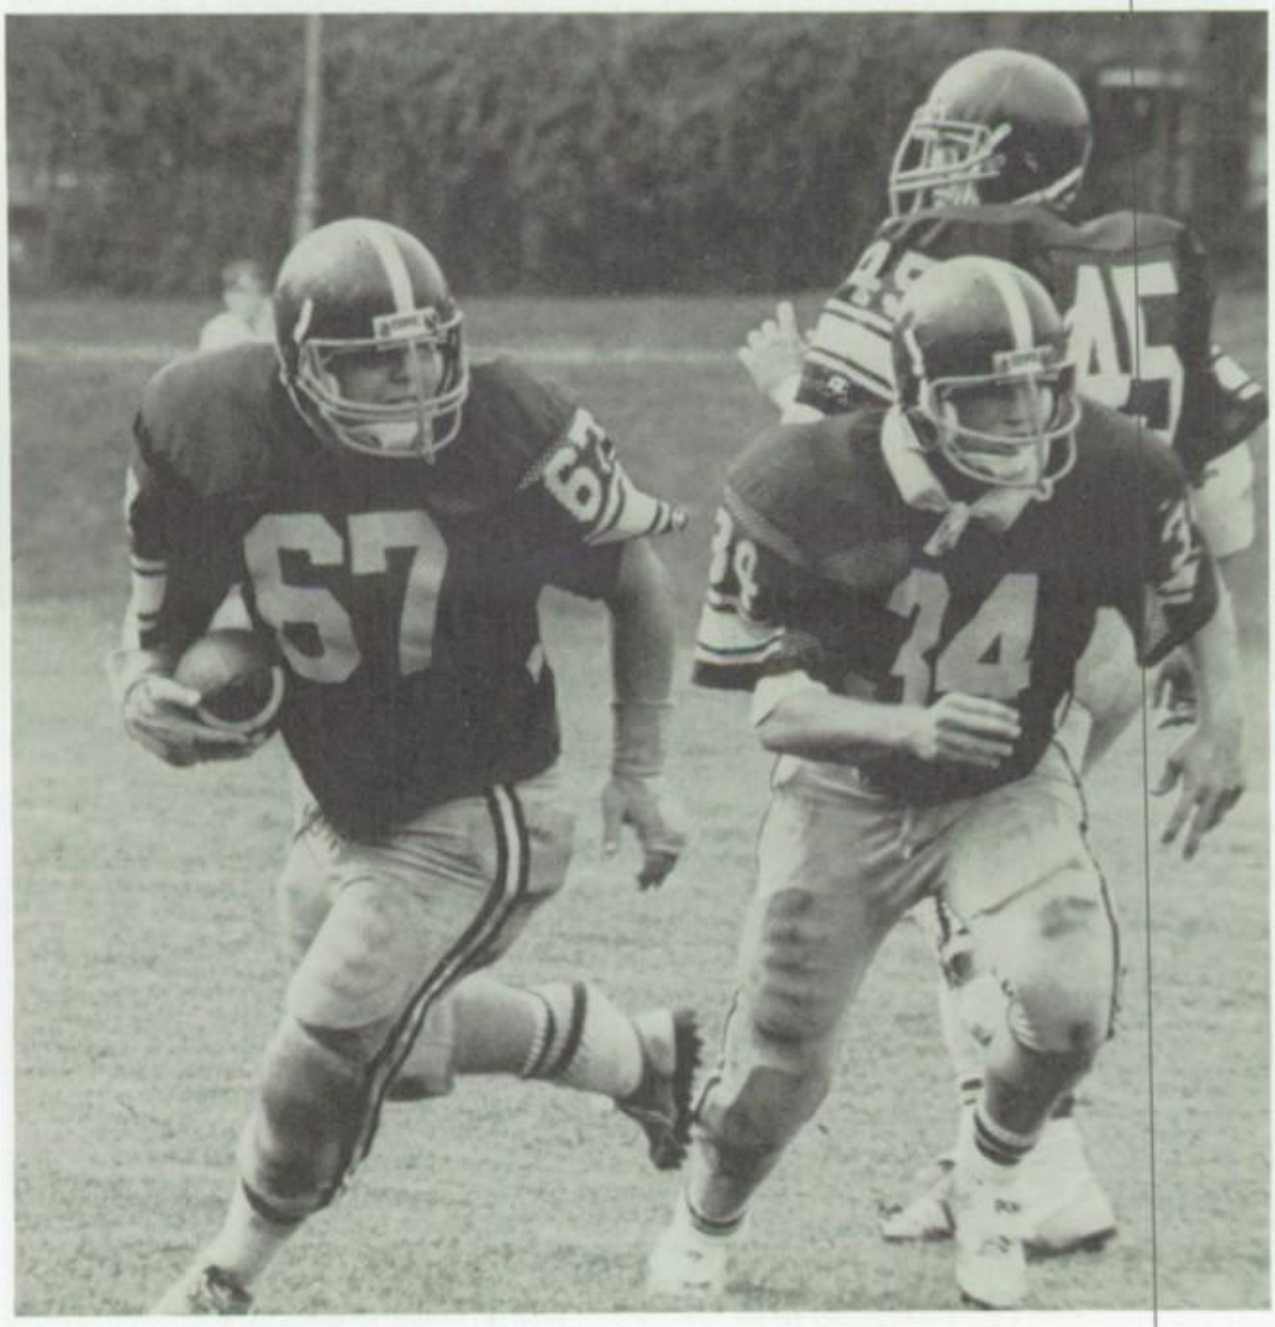
On August 31, The Hill School Varsity and J.V. Football squads returned to the school to hopefully carry on the outstanding winning seasons of 1983 and 1984. Their goal: to bring back a long awaited undefeated season for Hill Football. Ten lettermen, seven post-graduates, and a couple of outstanding fifth formers were the key standouts at early practice. It was apparent that an undefeated season was not out of reach, but this attitude is what hurt the team early on. Practices lagged. The coaches were upset. The team was down. The result was complete disorder at William Penn Charter. The powerful Inter-ac team limited the offense to minimal yardage. The defense looked considerably weak. The only highlights came against William Penn School of Delaware, a team half our size. Team morale was boosted the next weekend when The Hill took on Central H.S. from Philadelphia. Although still a weak performance, the offense at least managed to move the ball. That week Captains Mike Vollmer and Brad Fallon were elected. This was the backdrop to the first game against Wyoming Seminary.

The game against Wyoming was an unbelievable disappointment. The line's pass defense was awful, resulting in three sacks of quarterback, B.J. Evans. Peter Otterbein displayed his potential by scampering for 159 yards, many on his own effort. Most players could not believe the score at the end of the game: Wyoming 20, Hill 14. All hopes for an undefeated season were shattered. Morale plunged even lower when the team heard that Otterbein would be sidelined for the next three games.



The Hill traveled next to traditionally tough Germantown Academy. The first half went slowly, causing many to feel that this would be a repeat of last week's terrible loss. The score at the half was 14-8, with Germantown in striking position. A frightening talk at the half from Coach Eccleston finally roused the team. The offensive line exploded. The defense began to do what was needed to be done. The result, a 35-8 victory. Fourth formers Nevares and Gvodas filled in the backfield, rushing for a combined yardage well over 100 yards.

Hoping to avenge last year's embarrassment, the Hill traveled to Haverford. In the mud, the offensive line consisting of Vollmer, Grant, Meierhoff, Bicker, Gray, and Renna helped the backfield rush for over 200 yards. Despite this outstanding achievement, the offense could only score twice. The defense, led by the swarm, tried their best, limiting the quick Haverford offense to 14. The result was a 14-14 tie. Fortunately, this was the last game ending without a Hill victory.

Episcopal Academy came to town expecting a repeat of their previous 28 point blowout the year before. Instead they were stunned by an extremely "pumped up" team. Willman had a touchdown and punted extremely well. A DeLoe to Van Gorden pass resulted in a second touchdown. "Hands" Brown led the defense on account of his blocking of a potential Episcopal PAT. It was the teamwork which gave the Hill a 16-12 victory.

The game against Perkiomen proved to be a mismatch with the Hill completely dominating the game. The first team proved to be crushing, building up a 27-0 lead. Not until the coaches put in the second team was Perkiomen able to generate some offense. The final score was 34-14.

The long three-hour bus ride to Mercersburg was all made worthwhile as the Hill stunned the weak opponents, 32-9. For Mercersburg this game was considered their most important, but they were unable to effectively hurt the Hill's defensive unit. Baird had a T.D. and Evans threw for over a 100 yards. The pass defense was insurmountable.

The game against the weak Blair Academy was a complete annihilation. The offensive line was once again incredible. In fact, the Hill rushed for over 400 yards. To top it off, not a single starter saw playing time in the second half. Harrison and Pags had a couple of early interceptions. B.J. had another impressive day, throwing for over 73 yards. The Blues crushed the Bucs, 36-16.

The Peddie game traditionally results in a Hill letdown. This year proved to be the same. One might think that The Hill was unstoppable at this point, but visions of the early half of the season were once again seen. At the half the score was 9-9. Not until the fourth quarter was this tie broken due to a blocked punt by Eamon McAnaney. The result was a safety, making the final score 11-9, in favor of The Hill. The Hill's record now stood at 6-1-1. A final victory at L'Ville would plunge the 1985 team into the record books.

Although L'Ville was played on the road, the intensity of one of the oldest prep-school rivalries was still felt by The Hill. The team carried this intensity to New Jersey, only to meet an equally, if not more, pumped up football team. However, rain, mud and temperatures in the forties made it difficult to play football. It was a day when the offensive line proved that they were capable of playing with the best. The intensity paid off when The Hill marched off the field with a 22-9 halftime lead. The defensive line was playing the best they had ever played. The second half saw L'Ville battle back to 28-23. This put the entire season in jeopardy, but The Hill showed their courage by scoring a touchdown on a spectacular catch by Tom Haun. L'Ville's hopes of an upset were shattered, 35-23.

Hill Football started off weak, but courageously battled back to capture one of their finest seasons ever. Their consistent "never let up" attitude enforced by the coaches was the key to their success. Captains Vollmer and Fallon should be commended for their leadership. Special recognition should go to Peter "The Terminator" Otterbein, Kevin Gray, Mike Renna and the rest of the Sixth Form players as well. Although not captains, they led the team and influenced the underformers because of each one's love for the game of football. Not only did they beat L'Ville, but they also achieved the best record by a Hill Football team in a quarter of a century. It was truly a season to be remembered, 7-1-1!

Soccer

Blood and Guts

Under new head coach, Rev. Bensinger, the new 1985 soccer team had a dominate season, which could not be portrayed by their record. The team comprised twelve returning letterman and thirteen talented, growing new players. The seniors provided leadership qualities for the underformers by performing flawlessly on the field. Captains Graham Lewis and Sam Archer supported the team during the low points of the season, both on and off the field. Tom Corcoran, Marshall Wilson, Ryan Meyer, Berndi Streitwieser, Dorn "Herk" Stewart, Robert "Sure-Foot" Hagood, and Graham Lewis stymied the opposing offense throughout the season. Drew McNally, Dominic McCarthy, Mike Apfel, Bret Koehler, Peter Koehler, and Derek Grim provided both offense and defense with hustle and determination in the midfield. Scott Sandstrom, Boyd Despard, Horacio Romero, Jim De Caestecker, Jim "Flip" Ealy, Wilson Pringle, and Tom Allen showered the team with goals to pull them through tough games. The Hill goalies, Chris Pentz and Eric Kneifel, stuffed many sure fire goals. Let us not forget the cheering from the side lines from Sam Archer and Ross Baker who were injured the entire year.

The Blues opened their season against Haverford College (J.V.). The Blues dominated the entire game, but failed to score while Haverford produced a goal to win. Despite the 1-0 loss, the team seemed very strong. The whole team proved its ability on the field, thus promising for a winning season.

Hill redeemed itself by soundly defeating Malvern Prep, 3-0, with goals by Lewis, all scored by direct kicks. This game was highlighted by constant hustle in the offensive zone. This was also the first of the nine shutouts Chris Pentz would have this year.

Hill kept its intensity and dominated Chapel Christian by relentlessly firing shots at the opposing net. Though the only goal was scored by Jim Ealy, the effort was very instrumental in this 1-0 win. The Blues repeated its intense playing in their next game against William Penn Charter, but it was apparent that skill was not going to be the deciding factor. Because of Hill's physical strength, the Blues came from behind two times. After trailing 2-0, Wilson Pringle emerged from a large scramble and pushed the ball into the lower left corner of the net. Jim Ealy continued the rally by placing a hard shot into the upper right corner. Penn Charter came back with a score, but with ten players and eleven seconds left on the clock, Derek Grim struck the ball into the waiting net. The demanding game ended in a 3-3 tie.

Hill then traveled to Shipley to play a very physical game. Mike "Rebound" Apfel scored early with a beautiful low shot, but Shipley tallied on a penalty shot which Chris Pentz narrowly missed. Late in the second half, Jim Ealy scored on a 25 yard chip shot to win the game, 2-1. Hill then traveled to play Germantown Academy. The Blues, missing the aggressiveness of its previous games, lost, 2-1. The only Hill goal was scored by Jim Ealy. The Blues then played an even tougher opponent at Swarthmore College. The Hill played a strong game, but ended up tying, 1-1.

After the letdown, Hill used a new tactic against Owen J. Roberts, the 4-3-3 formation. Hill played well in its new formation, winning, 2-1. The Blues' goals came from Jim Ealy and Peter Koehler from half-field. Hill then seemed ready for formidable Chestnut Hill Academy. This proved to be one of the Hill's toughest games. Thanks to the excellent defense by Tom Corcoran, Peter Koehler, Marshall Wilson, and 'All-State' Graham Lewis, Hill kept Chestnut Hill from scoring. With only 40 seconds left in the game, Graham Lewis kicked the ball over the goalie to Tom Allen, who scored the winning goal. The Blues won 1-0. Hill then again proved its strength by defeating Ursinus College, 6-0, the same squad that had beaten them 9-0 in the preseason.

Hill then suffered a heart-breaker against Episcopal Academy. Although the Blues played one of their best games, they lost, 3-2. However in the Blues' next game, Hill romped to a 5-0 victory over Exeter. Jim DeCaestecker scored twice and Jim Ealy, Peter Koehler, and Dominic McCarthy each scored once. Hill was in great form for its next game, and defeated Westtown, 1-0, with Peter Koehler blasting the only goal for the Hill.

In the following game against Mercersburg Academy, no one could penetrate the Mercersburg goal, defended by a 6', 200-pd. female. Mercersburg scored early in the first period to secure the game at 1-0. After such a disappointing loss, the team now needed a sound victory to improve a now average looking record. The Blues looked to Valley Forge for this victory. The win looked improbable, for Hill was losing 1-0 at half time. The Blues came back in the second half after a spirited pep talk by Rev. Bensinger. Graham Lewis kicked two penalty shots to give the Hill their wanted victory at 2-1.

Hill then faced an inspired Blair Academy. The Blues winning ways continued over the Bucs. Bret Koehler scored on a long curling shot to give the Hill its tenth victory in 16 games, 1-0. Hill's winning streak continued as they trounced William Trade School, 5-0. Rick Kneifel played outstanding in goal as he led the team onto victory. In their next game, Peddie proved to be a superior opponent and defeated Hill, 5-2. Ryan Meyer and Tom Allen scored for Hill

With many injuries, Hill faced Haverford School. After trailing 1-0, Bret Koehler scored on a well placed direct kick to tie the game, 1-1. Outstanding play from Robert Hagood almost pulled out a victory.

Hill concluded the season against arch-rival Lawrenceville. The Bootmen played the best game of their season against the New Jersey state champions. In 40 degree, rainy weather Rob Hagood Tom Corcoran, Graham Kewis, and Chris Pentz played exceptional soccer. At the end of fourth quarter, the score was tied at 0-0, but the Larries defeated Hill 1-0 in a double overtime.

Although the Blues record was 11-6-3, it could have been 19-1-0, for the Blues lost five of the six games by a mere goal. Nagging injuries hampered the line-up, but the depth of the team pulled it through in pressure situations. The 1985 soccer team was characterized by constant hustle and determination.

Gaining Experience

Water Polo

The 1985 Water Polo team's season was a season of learning, growing and even sometimes winning. The team was composed primarily of people who were rookies at the varsity level. To compensate for this lack of experience, many dedicated team members took time out from summer vacations to attend Water Polo camps. Chip, Dockter Guilli, and Woody learned so much so fast at the University of Alabama Water Polo Camp, that the camp decided to let them go one week early.

When the season rolled around and everyone had survived early practice, the team was ready to meet the challenge of the coming season. The Hill team soon got off to a slow start by losing a tough game to Reading H.S., 10-11. The team was not discouraged by this loss, however, and shortly thereafter came back with a win against Annapolis H.S., 11-10.

Fortunately for the Water Polo team there was an encouraging support from the crowd throughout the season. "Ruth's Cheering Squad" came out to every home game, and helped cheer the Hill to victories over Annapolis, Wilson, and Lower Moreland.

In the Greenwich tournament, known to the team as "Gandhi's Trip to the Big City," the Hill placed sixth losing to Germantown Academy, 8-9. The team seemed to have improved at the Greenwich Tournament, and right after the tournament the Blues seemed to get back on the right track.

On Parent's Weekend after coming off some tough losses, the Blues gave the fans their money's worth. At the beginning of the game, the Blues took a big lead over Gilman H.S.. As the game progressed, Gilman improved. A last minute fourth quarter surge brought Gilman close but a deflected shot gave the Hill victory.

The following week the Hill travelled to Wilson H.S.. Wilson was very psyched and fared well. Spurred on by their gorgeous cheerleaders, they took an early lead. Mr. Nelson then decided to get kicked out. The coachless team was inspired and began to dominate the game. The Blues eventually won. The team left with a good feeling for the Navy Tournament but more importantly a win and a couple of Wilson signs. The team moved up. Mr. Nelson dropped to -1.

The Blues then went perhaps to the biggest weekend of the year, the Naval Academy Invitational. The team had to leave late on Friday due to a home J.V. game. The Blues arrived just in time for their game with Germantown that night. It took awhile to get adjusted to the much larger pool. GA took an incredible lead of 10-4 at halftime. A quick pep talk refreshed the Blues, and they came out strong in the second half. The team brought the game within one with ten seconds left. Time appeared to be out but a penalty restored some time. On the second, the Hill had a "tap-in" to push the game into overtime. Both teams played well and the score remained tied after the completion of overtime, 15-15. Sudden Death followed. The team faltered and GA scored, winning by a score of 16-15.

The next day of the tournament the Blues hoped would bring more success. Unfortunately, the team was pitted against Greenwich, the number one seeded team in the tournament. The Blues played well but Greenwich's counterattack proved to be too much and the Blues succumbed 12-4.

Later that afternoon, the Hill faced a very spirited Gilman team. Gilman proved to be a struggle in the first half, but the Blues played well the second half and eventually won the game, 7-5.

The Blues then had a good night rest preparing for their final game of the tournament, Annapolis. The team still had a shot at second place if they could beat Annapolis. At the outset of the game the two teams appeared to be evenly matched, one team scoring, then the other. In the second half, however, Annapolis established a lead. The Hill team fought back but could not regain the lead. The Blues final effort fell just short,

12-7.

After the team returned home, it was only a short time before they had another game. The Hill travelled to Lower Moreland in hope of seeking revenge on a team which had previously beaten them. Upon arrival, the "Deabate Team" wasted no time. From the moment that the game started, it was obvious who was in control. The Blues ended up crushing Lower Moreland, 11-8.

The next eagerly awaited game was at home against Germantown Academy. The Blues hoped to finally defeat the team which had previously beaten them by one goal. The team went into the game psyched but so did Germantown. GA took a large opening lead but the team fought back once again. The Blues hung close but a second half drive crushed the team, and they never came back from the assault.

The Hill then travelled to another tournament, the Perkiomen Valley Tournament. The Hill's first scheduled game was against a powerful Lawrenceville team. L'Ville was tough throughout the game. The Hill team fought back only to fall short, 8-5.

The Hill's second game of the tournament was against Penn Charter. The Blues dominated throughout. Everyone got in the scoring act, even the goalie. The team ended up demolishing Penn Charter, 19-4.

The Hill's final regular season game was against undefeated Lawrenceville. Unfortunately, Polo could not join the other teams on L'Ville Weekend because of a tournament. At the beginning of the game, Lawrenceville did everything right and the Blues seemed destined for trouble. The team did not despair and hung in right to the end. The team played well but the Larries' arsenal proved too strong. The Blues' final Water Polo games were played at the Villanova Tournament. The Hill's first game was against Germantown, a team which they had already played several times this year. Once again, the Blues fell behind to Germantown in the first half. In the second half, however, the Blues came right back and pulled the game within one. Germantown scored and the Blues could not make up the difference and fell just short of victory, 11-9.

The following day brought better success to the Blues. The Blues played Perkiomen Valley. Throughout the whole game The Blues dominated. The Blues ended up winning by a score of 24-3.

The Hill's final game of the tournament, as well as the season, was against Wilson High School. Wilson was psyched for the game, but the Blues played excellently, opening a 10-0 lead in the first quarter. Wilson could not get back on track and the Blues ended up crushing Wilson, 20-4.

A Trying Year Swimming

The 1985-1986 Swimming Team has had a trying year. The team, situated in the best league in the country, found itself at odds in an attempt to pull off a successful season. Hard work, good friends, and a sense of humor were three distinct qualities that the young team never lost sight of. Throughout the season, the team persevered meet after meet in order to better itself. The team had a series of tough meets in which the Blues rose to the occasion without exception.

The team began the season on a dreary note: a four hour drive to the swimming capital of the U.S., Mercersburg. Despite the long and difficult trip, the team members kept themselves busy by reading excellent works of literature. After a rough first three hours, the whole team agreed that it was time for lunch. They fervently looked for a place to stop. They finally agreed that eating on the side of the road was as good a place as any, so the bag lunches were brought out. Upon arrival, The Hill entered the natatorium. Mercersburg doesn't have a swimming pool. With the absence of the Hilltones, the Blues received the next best thing; the Mercersburg Swim Team. With a few clunks here and there, the team sang the National Anthem, a credit to any nation. After The Hill had swum a respectable meet, the team was fortunate enough to be taught a new style of dancing by a student there, until she noticed us and ran away.

The next meet against Peddie proved to be genuinely closer. The team had many best times, but Peddie, with their hardhats and beards proved to be too strong. The team was not disappointed, however, since nearly everyone had his best time.

The following meet was not looked forward to, Loyola had only lost to Mercersburg by three points in the final relay. Loyola had three exceptional swimmers in every race, however. The Blues could not be depressed due to the brand new warmups. It was out of the age old polyester and into class.

The Hill was psyched for the next meet against the United States Naval Academy. The team stood a good chance of winning. They were slightly dismayed to find that most of their swimmers were bigger than their fathers. Well the bigger they are, the harder they fall is what we said. The cheer of "Damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead" proved to be original: What creativity! The Blues swam well, unfortunately, Navy swam better. The team was then subjected to a talk of the excellent standards of the Naval Academy. All feigned interest.

The next meet was against the Germantown Academy. They were the second best high school team in the nation. The meet proved to be at best unpleasant. Germantown did not hold back at all as they crushed The Hill. Well, that is the way the cookie crumbled. The Hill then looked forward to Lawrenceville.

In the following meet against Lawrenceville, expectations were for a close meet. Both coaches had predicted that their teams would win. Spirit and psyche were present on both sides. All of the races proved to be close. Unfortunately, more close races were won by L'ville than by The Hill. The Hill, however, maintained its sense of humor with a flipper relay after the meet had been decided. Tempers flaired throughout the meet as it is with arch rivals. After one team won a race, the other would be snubbed. As in one case, L'ville demonstrated their "sportsman-like" conduct.

The final meet was against the Pottstown YMCA, an inter-town rivalry. The meet was dominated by The Hill from beginning to end. For many, it marked the last meet that they would swim for The Hill. It was a fitting end to many of their Hill swimming careers with many best times.

The 1985-86 season can be seen as one of both success and failure. In swimming, one swims against the clock and the team enjoyed many best times throughout the season. Although the record does not indicate as such, The Hill Swimming team had one of its most successful and enjoyable seasons ever.

Driving to Victory — Squash

The season, began before Thanksgiving break with long, grueling runs across the campus, and the track a few times. Garrett Frank decided to take the scenic route, and got lost a few times.

As the weather got colder following Thanksgiving break, coach James Moore lost some of his zeal for his cross-country, culturally enlightening runs, and the team began to play some serious squash. By the first match, the lineup was as follows: Garrett Frank at no. 1, Craig Beem no. 2, Chris Pentz no. 3, Ross Baker no. 4, Martin Yupangco no. 5, Victor Ng no. 6, Josh McHugh no. 7, Tim Dearnley no. 8, Charlie Keates no. 9, and Marshall Wilson no. 10.

The team destroyed its first two opponents, Penn Charter and Haverford College, 7-0 and 9-0, respectively. Mr. Moore got severely lost on the way back from Penn Charter, ending up in the slums of Philadelphia. The players helped him out with such sterling remarks as: "Hey, that looks like Franklin Field!" and "Go left up here."

In its third match, Hill faced Formidable Haverford. Haverford is cited as "The best prep school team in the country . . . " by the Squash News. Perhaps flattened out by their easy first two matches, Hill lost, 1-6. Garrett Frank pulled off an upset at no. 1, winning 3-2. Incidentally any win against Haverford was redeemable for $5 worth of food at the fast food establishment of one's choice, courtesy of Mr. Moore.

Following Christmas vacaton, five Hill players made the trip to Choate Rosemary Hall. The five were: no. 1 Garrett Frank, no. 2 Chris Pentz, no. 3 Craig Beem, no. 4 Ross Baker, and no. 5 Josh McHugh. The team made it up safely, despite Mr. Moore's "no-mirrors" driving technique. They also made it up in record time, thanks to Beem's radar detector. When they arrived, seniors Beem and Baker roamed the campus scaring people, while fourth formers McHugh and Frank went off in search of other entertainment. They're still writing letters. The team did not fare as well on the court as off, losing three matches and winning only one.

The team's next three matches were at home. First, they chewed up Chestnut Hill, 7-0. The next match was a double-header against The Delbarton School and the alma mater of Mark Talbott, Mercersburg. The Hill easily downed both teams by scores of 6-1 and 6-1. Three days later, The Hill discarded Penn Charter by a 7-0 tally.

The next two matches were on the road. Road trips always kept everyone on the edge of his seat, because Mr. Moore knew the roads like the back of his head. He defied the old saying, "It's all done with mirrors", and stoutly persisted in turning around to see the road behind him.

Excited and inspired by Mr. Moore's heroic driving tactics, The Hill racquetmen crushed Episcopal, 6-1, despite the fact that Episcopal made sure The Hill was denied every comfort before the match. Craig Beem planned to play his match while wearing hiking boots, but the Episcopal coach informed Beem, "Son, you are not playing in those things!"

The Hill's next match was against Chestnut Hill Academy. Chestnut Hill was much better prepared than in the team's first meeting. The score was knotted at three matches to three, when Frank moved to two games to one over his highly favored opponent. He was so flustered that he lofted his racquet into the rafters, ran out and kicked a water fountain. Garrett won the match 3-1 and The Hill triumphed, 4-3. By the time the Hill team left, the entire Chestnut Hill gym was ankle deep in water.

The Hill's next match was against the St. Andrew's School. As expected, The Hill won decisively, 7-0. The Hill was glad to have the win, but the match was uneventful for the players.

The Hill Squash team then faced their toughest four matches of the year, all in a five day period. First, Hill lost a Monday night match to Penn J.V., 1-6. Four of Hill's six losses were by the close score of 3-2. Next, Hill once again faced Haverford, with the same 1-6 result. The only win came from Garrett, who pulled off another upset at the number one spot. Captain Ross Baker lost a close 3-2 match at the number four spot. On the following day, Hill played a Princeton J.V. squad that had "forgotten" a match earlier in the year. Hill lost an incredibly close match, 4-5.

The next match, against the U.S. Naval Academy, was unfortunate in a couple of ways. First, Craig Beem refused to take the trip to Annapolis, Maryland, and was dropped from the team. Second, the team made the three hour drive to Navy, only to lose

1-8. The lineup was: Garrett Frank #1, Chris Pentz #2, Ross Baker #3, Victor Ng #4, Josh McHugh #5, Yupangco #6, Dearnly #7, Charles Keates #8, and Marshall Wilson #9, who was not expected to play, but who went above and beyond the call of duty. Garrett was the only Hillie to register a win. Pentz played heroically on an injured knee, but lost 3-2 in a fifth game tiebreaker.

Mr. Moore's mailbox memos kept it interesting. He once missed sixteen meals in a row suffering from Winter Termitis. His best quip was, "Beem, when I was in high school, we had a name for guys like you . . . " His Cornell frat house stories were the hit of the drive to Choate. He made frequent trips to see his fiancee, Kim, at Smith College, and he always got the team back just in time for dinner.

The team will be hurt by the loss of Sixth Formers, Baker and Yupangco (and the re-loss of Beem), but will be helped by some very talented players form the J.V..

The season record reflects a good effort by a good team, but cannot begin to show the great deal of fun we had.

— Josh McHugh

Ski Team

State Champs!

This year's ski team, under the firm and experienced coaching of Mr. Kowalchick, completed another very successful year. With an impressive record of 40 wins and 4 losses in league races and 61 wins and 10 losses for the entire season, the Hill Ski Team has built for itself the reputation of being a dominant skiing power in only its two years of competition.

Led by Captain George Tamblyn (Geo), the varsity team comprised fine, solid, experienced racers who all helped lead the team to success: Henrik Werring, Gunti Weissenberger, Todd Achilles, Allen Symonds and Bob Traenkle.

The J.V. team also proved to be a great training ground for some new racers. Clayton "Sarge" Ketchum, Chris Seda, Bill Lundy, Allen Hutcheson, Mathew Graves and Richard Cowell all improved dramatically. The varsity team welcomes the underformers in the upcoming years.

This dedicated team of skiers, otherwise known as the Mountain Men, started out the beginning of the winter term with a rigorous and demanding dry land training schedule involving stretching, lifting weights and running sprints. Sunnybrooks and gates helped to prepare the team both mentally and physically for the first on-the-snow practice that immediately followed Christmas Vacation.

After a solid two weeks of skiing courses and practicing drills, at nearby Doe Mountain, the Ski Team confidently set off for their first slalom race against their New Jersey counterparts. It was the worst race the team had all season, but the team's defeat was beneficial. The team finished in a demoralizing and sobering fourth place and that quickly brought the team "down to earth" when it saw what the competition was like.

The next race came on January 22, but this time the team was determined not to falter. In the rain at the Hidden Valley Ski area in New Jersey, The Hill placed second by only placing one second in overall time to Lawrenceville. Tamblyn finished 3rd; Werring, 5th; Weissenberger, 7th; and Achilles, 9th, on a very open and easy giant slalom course. The J.V. team also finished strongly with an excellent time from 3rd former Clayton Ketchum.

The third race came just two days later, and this time nothing would stop a Hill victory. Everyone was psyched-up for the race and it showed up with their excellent times. Geo finished 2nd; Gunti finished 4th; Henric finished 7th and Al Symonds placed 12th. Todd Achilles fell and was disqualified. These strong finishes put Hill in first place, defeating Lawrenceville and Blair in a relatively close race. This was a difficult slalom, and it took its toll on the J.V. team, with Bob Trankle being the only one to finish both runs. The final score was Hill, first, Blair second and Lawrenceville back in sixth.

The Hill racers arrived at the slalom race on January 31, ready to claim another victory. This race was all Hill with Geo winning it, Henric placing 2nd, Todd 11th, and Al 15th. Unfortunately, Gunti lost a ski when he straddled one of the gates, and did not finish. The J.V. recoiled from the previous race with Chris Seda placing 5th, Bill Lundy 6th, and second former Rich Cowell in 10th. Hill blew past Blair and Lawrenceville to win this race, and move themselves into first place in the 8 team league.

The next race was the second Annual Hill Invitational during Holiday Weekend at Camelback Ski area. This race was not in the New Jersey League, but Larenceville came in an effort to avenge their losses. A grand total of 16 teams and 96 racers competed in this race, but nothing could stop the Mountain Men as they squeaked past an angry Lawrenceville team to claim victory number 3. Captain Geo Taymblyn raced two excellent runs to beat Lawrenceville's best skier and win the race. Gunti placed third; Todd sixth and Allen Symonds eighth. Henric Werring's ski came off in an excellent run, due to a faulty binding, and disappointingly ended his day a little early.

In the J.V. standings, Clayton Ketchum again came through with a respectable fifteenth place over all. Chris placed twenty-ninth; Bill Lundy, thirty-first and Matt Graves finished thirty-fourth.

After a relaxing weekend of "camelkahon" racing, the mountain men returned to race another giant slalom league race on February fifth. Blair and Lawrenceville were out for blood, but nothing could stop the skill and depthness of the Hill racers. This steep and fast course seemed to be to the team's liking, as Geo placed third, Henrik 4th, Allen 7th and Todd 10th, for another Hill victory. The J.V. racers finished well with Matt Graves at the top in 8th, Chris Seda in 12th, Rick Cowell in 13th, and Hutch in 14th.

That weekend the Hill Ski Team traveled back up to Hidden Valley, to compete in the Blair Invitational. This race drew some excellent New England Schools, such as Choate, Loomis-Chaffe, Salisbury, and a few New York schools. Coach Kowalchick let this be an individual race for everyone, so Captain Geo Tamblyn placed an impressive 6th in the slalom and 8th in the giant slalom. Todd Achilles had a strong giant slalom run placing 9th. and Gunti Weissenberger placed consistently well, with a 14th in the slalom and 12th in the giant slalom. Henrik Werring's binding stuck again and so he was disqualified in both.

The last race of the season came on February 14th, with the mountain men securely in first place in the New Jersey Prep league. This was an especially icy slalom race, and it took its toll on racers Geo Tamblyn and Todd Achilles, both of whom were disqualified. However, the leaders of next year's team, Gunti and Henrick, placed 2nd and 3rd respectively with Allen Symonds in 10th and Bob Traenkle saving the race for Hill with a 16th place finish. The only J.V. finishers were Matt, Hutch, and Bill Lundy. This final Hill victory capped off a fine race winning streak.

The mountain men not only made Hill a powerhouse on the slopes, they also learned how to compete as a team under the excellent coaching and advise of Coach K. The Hill Ski team finished the year as the State Champions of the New Jersey Prep League, leaving Lawrenceville and Blair with the bitter taste of defeat. Individually, Captain Geo Tamblyn finished first as the league champion, and Henrick Werring placed second, securing the only two prep league positions to the Eastern Interscolastic Championships.

Rookie Coach Hockey

The Hill School Varsity Ice Hockey team compiled an impressive record of 16 wins, 8 losses and two ties, during the 1985-86 season. Mr. Eccleston, head coach for the past two years, stepped down this year to the assitant position and was replaced by Mr. Mandigo.

The regular season began on December 5th, against the Princeton J.V.s. The Blues were out muscled by an older and more experienced college team and fell by a score of 7-2. The pucksters got the season on track in their next contest against the Valley Forge Colonials, winning by a score of 5-1. In the home opener, the Blues thoroughly outplayed an inexperienced Gladiator team from New Jersey. The final score was 8-2 and saw Craig Forrest register the season's first hat trick. The next game was perhaps the worst loss of the entire season. The Washington Crusaders came to The Hill with only six players. The team, perhaps, took the game too lightly and were beaten 5-3; the final goal for Washington being scored into an empty net. The next game The Hill would face a strong, but young team called the Philadelphia Midget Flyers. The Hill gave their opponents a lesson in humility. The final score was 6-1, in favor of The Hill.

With Christmas vacaton right around the corner, the team had one stop to make before they headed home. The first highlight of the season was the Avon Old Farms Christmas Classic held in Avon, Connecticut. The entire team realized they would have to play to their utmost abilities to compete with the other teams in the tournament. Scouts from many major hockey colleges, as well as a few professional teams, would be present. Tension mounted with each passing minute. The Hillies were fortunate to draw one of the weaker teams as their first opponent.

They would play Ringswood-Oxford on Friday morning. The Hillies took the ice and appeared a bit tentative during the course of the game. Theywere lucky to come out victorious by a score of 2-1. Friday night's contest would pit them against a much tougher adversary, however, and another sub-par performance would lead to another embarrassing outcome. The team spent the entire day psyching themselves up for that night's game against the host team, Avon Old Farms. They are considered to be the best high school prep team in the Country. The Pucksters came out flying and held a 1-0 edge at the end of the first period. The Avon team absolutely bombarded the Hill's net with shots in the second period, outshooting The Hill 22-2. Tommy Eccleston was brilliant in goal as he allowed only two of those pucks to go by him. This kept The Hill in the game, but trailing by a score of 2-1. In the third periodThe Hill once again came out flying scoring two goals in the opening minutes to build a 3-2 advantage. Avon tied the game with about five minutes remaining and scored a power play goal with under two minutes to play to defeat The Hill, 4-3. Although they were disappointed to lose such a close game, the players and coaches felt that it was the Pucksters finest performance of the season. The next day, The Hill overpowered a strong Loomis Chaffee team, beating them 7-3. They finished third in the tournament. Leaving for home, the team's record now stood at 5 wins and 3 losses.

The team returned to The Hill early from vacation to play in another tournament, The Hamilton College Invitational. The Hillies first game of the tournament pitted them against the Hamilton J.V.s. The Hill played well for two periods, but were lucky enough to come away with a 6-5 win and a trip to the championship round. The next day The Hill was outclassed by a well coached team from Hotchkiss. They played a flat game losing 8-2 and finishing second in the tournament.

The next two games would pit The Hill against yet two more prep school teams, Peddie and Trinity-Pawling. The Peddie game was forecasted as a tough one for the Blues, but they made somewhat of a laughter about it beating their opponents from New Jersey by a score of 7-1. Greg Eccleston had a superb game coming up with a goal and four assists. The game against Trinity-Pawling was a fast and furious one. Only a late third period goal gave The Hill the victory. The Hill's next opponent was the Wintersport Royals. In an extremely rough game marred by numerous penalties and scuffles, The Hill held on for a 3-2 win with Eric Speno picking up the game winning goal. In The Hill's next contest against the Glaciers Hockey Club, the game was tied at four after two periods. An offensive spurt in the third period propelled The Hill to a 7-4 win with Chris Bradbury picking up two goals for the Blues. Playing the Valley Forge Colonials for the second time The Hill soundly defeated their opponents with well disciplined play, 7-3.

The next segment of the season would see the Hillies fall into a bit of a lull after winning five straight. Loomis Chaffee came to The Hill and put on an offensive display of talent scoring nine goals en route to a 9-5 win. The only bright spot for The Hill was Charlie Mahoney's second hat trick of the season. The Hill then travelled to Princeton Day School and thumped on the inexperienced team,

9-3. Sean Catlin picked up two goals for The Hill and his linemate, Robbie Mitchell, added a goal and an assist. In the next game, the Hill once again played host to the Philadelphia Midget Flyers. The Flyers came out to play this time and earned a 3-3 tie. The Hill's next opponent was the Westtown Quakers. The Hill came out on top by a score of 7-0 as Dave Meierhoff and Pat Sweeney combined for the season's first shutout. In addition, Kevin Van Gorden added two goals from his defensive position.

The next visitor to The Hill was a strong Philadelphia Junior Flyer team. The Flyers simply outplayed The Hill and, despite a late thrust, hung on for a 3-2 win.

On Satudray, February 8th, The Hill was to face off against Lawrenceville in the first of the season's two meetings. The L'ville goalie played an excellent game stopping many Hill scoring opportunity. The Larries capitalized on Hill errors on their way to a 4-0 victory, despite strong work on defense from Chris Teufel.

The Gettysburg Hockey Club was The Hill's next opponent. Playing before the home crowd, The Hill embarassed their opponents by a score of 10-2. T.J. Paolino and Craig Forrest had hat tricks, while Marc Colaizzi picked up two goals. The game also featured Pete Kelly's first varsity goal — scored for someone special.

Another of the season's highlights confronted The Hill in the form of the New England trip. The first game of the trip was against The Brown University's J.V.. The Hill jumped out to a quick lead thanks to junior captain, Steve McCool. McCool scored the first three goals, picking up his first Hill School hat trick. The Hill tried and finally succumbed to Brown by a score of 7-4. The next day against the Pomfret School, a off day against an extremely accurate L'ville team, let eight goals enter his net making the final score, 8-3 in favor of the Larries.

The Hill School's Varsity Hockey team had one of its greatest years, despite the changes in coaches and captains. It was definitely not a rebuilding year as The Hill faced off against the finest teams that they could play against. Their record speaks for itself as as it demonstrates the excellence that they sought and achieved.

three goalies combined for a 6-0 shutout. Drew McNally scored a beaufiul tip in of a Warren Brown boomer and another goal was added when Tim "Mucker" Frederick muscled his way into the slot and jammed one home.

Next, The Hill travelled to Peddie and blanked their opponents, 6-0. Tommy Ecc went the distance in the goal for his first solo shutout. The next contest was to be played on the Spectrum ice against the Philadelphia Junior Flyers. The Flyers played The Hill tough and carried a 1-0 lead into the third period. Only another patented, quick-relase shot by Chris Galizio would give The Hill a 1-1 tie.

Finally, The Hill hockey team faced their final game of their long and successful season. On the Hill ice, the Blues played against the Larries from Lawrenceville. Despite the antics of Eamon McAnaney and "The Wall", the goalie managed to keep his holes plugged up as he only let three goals go past him. Tommy Ecc, having an

Some Shattered Hopes

As the 1985 Wrestling season closed, The Hill wrestlers looked forward optimistically to the coming year. With twelve returning lettermen, the team appeared to be headed for a very strong season. During the spring and fall, the grapplers lifted and ran to prepare for the '86 season. Captains Vollmer and Mullaney also worked hard in preparations. Unfortunately, though, the team lost the talents of two of its most successful wrestlers, Felix Zvarick and Brian Folk. Although the loss was disappointing, the team was still determined to have a successful season.

In their first match, against Malvern Prep, The Hill had a very strong showing. Several pins helped secure the victory, 63-6.

With one win to their credit, the matmen were ready for their first serious competition: the Mercersburg Invitational Tournament. The Hill fared very well, taking second in the team standings. Good individual performances were turned in by Vollmer and Willman, both of whom took first place. Many other team members also met with success.

The Hill's next match, though, was not so promising. With the help of some lucky matchups, Blair handed The Hill its first defeat, 18-42.

Anxious to get back on the winning track, The Hill wrestlers prepared for their first tri-meet against Valley Forge and Bishop Kendrick. In the first match against Bishop Kendrick, the grapplers dropped their second. Despite pins by Coyle, Mullaney, Butcher and Willman, the early deficit could not be erased, and they lost, 30-42.

Against Valley Forge, The Hill was more successful. Kim, Sasala, Butcher, Willmen and Vollmer showed the Trojans the lighting fixtures to lead the team to a 40-29 victory.

The next match against Penn Charter, proved to be one of the most exciting of the year. In the lower weight classes, several costly pins resulted in a early deficit. With three weight classes to go, Penn Charter led by ten points, a loss would clinch a loss. Mike Bernert took the mat in front of a tense crowd. The first period ended in a 2-2 tie. Then, with thirty seconds left in the second period, Mike plastered his man to the mat. Willman and Vollmer turned in their customary victories to clinch the match, 30-25.

The Hill's next opponent was Mercersburg. The Hill wrestlers did not have a very good day, but the Mercersburg team was weak enough so that The Hill could beat them even on an off day. Pins were recorded by Mickletz, Willman and Vollmer.

The easy victory over Mercersburg put The Hill wrestlers in a rather complacent mood, something they could not afford against their next opponent, Peddie. After dropping the first ten matches, Willman and Vollmer got some retribution with 59 and 35 second pins respectively. But it was not enough as The Hill suffered their most embarassing loss, 12-52.

The grapplers then went to visit Hill defector, Brian Folk, at the Tatnall Tournament. The Hill mintained their good tournament record by placing third in a field of eight strong teams. Vollmer, Willman and Mullaney got first and Sasala placed third.

In'85, The Hill suffered a close loss to Episcopal, so everyone was eager for a victory. Unfortunately, fate would not have it so. Two quick pins from Captains Mullaney and Vollmer were not enough as The Hill suffered their fourth loss, 18-39.

The next visitor to the mats of The Hill was the dreaded Larries. Crushing Lawrenceville is an event that the team looks forward to every year, but this year that treat was plucked from their mouths. The big guys, Willman and Vollmer, racked up six each and Kamis, Mickletz and Krafozek wrestled well. Unfortunately, L'ville had more desire, and defeated The Hill for the first time in many years, 23-39.

After Holiday Weekend, The Hill wrestlers met Lansdale Catholic and Perkiomen in a tri-meet. It was just the right medicine for picking up spirits.

Against Lansdale, The Hill benefitted from six falls to roll to a 53-11 victory.

The score against Perkiomen was even more lopsided. Wallace, Diller, Grim, O'Brien and Croasdale all had good matches, pinning their opponents. Perkiomen only scored one minor decision as The Hill chalked up its most impressive victory 64-3.

With a record of 6-5, the matmen faced, The Academy of the New Church. The two closely matched teams battled to a 30-30 tie, in front of a large crowd.

In the midst of a snowstorm, The Hill travelled to Delaware to compete in the St. Andrew's Tournament. The Hill again dominated the tournament, placing four men in the finals. Mullaney, Vollmer and Wallace won their championship bouts, and Butcher placed second. Kamis, Mickletz and Dawson pulled in thirds.

For the final dual meet of the year, The Hill faced Haverford. The fourth form made its contribution with six point performances, but Haverford was too strong for Willman and Krafczek. The team did wrestle well, but Haverford prevailed and The Hill closed its season with a 24-31 loss. Their final record stood at 6-6-1.

Two days later The Hill wrestlers travelled to Haverford to compete in the PAPSIWT Tournament. The Hill turned in one of its best performances in recent years. Willman and Mullaney took first, Vollmer placed second, Dawson got a third and Mickletz got a fourth.

The '86 season did not turn out as well as the team had expected. Several close losses resulted in a 6-6-1 record. The J.V. team suffered only one loss, though, and will provide a lot of support for the varsity team next year. With nine returning lettermen next year, The Hill Wrestling team hopes to avenge some of this year's losses and continue to perform well against those teams it always has.

Even Season Basketball

The members of the 1985-1986 Varsity Basketball team did one major thing for the basketball program at The Hill, they rejuvenated it. The players showed enthusiasm on the court which caught on with the fans. Basketball attendance rose with the forming of "The Mound," a group of Sixth Formers who lead the cheers at all the home games. This enthusiasm was seen off the court as well. Around Christmas time, the team went Christmas Caroling throughout the campus. On the court, the team had many ups and downs. While finishing 12-12, the netters lost eight games by five points or less, several of these were decided in the last ten seconds. With a few breaks, the hoopsters could have owned an impressive record.

The season began with a disappointing loss to Chestnut Hill Academy. The team was plagued with fouls and missed an opportunity to win at the buzzer. The Hill then won impressively over Chapel Christian, but had another letdown with a loss to the Haverford School. The team then lost another heartbreaker against The Hun School in the first round of the Peddie Tournament, but crushed Dalton School in the second round.

They then returned home for the annual Hill Invitational Tournament, where they beat a scrapy Kent School, while losing to Episcopal Academy and Lawrenceville. After Christmas break, the Blues went on the road and defeated a tough Princeton Day School, but again lost to Episcopal. The team regrouped and destroyed both Blair Academy and Mercersburg. Next, the Blues lost four games in a row, three by a total of seven points, They were Germantown Academy, Penn Charter, Ursinus College, and Lawrenceville. Although the losses were disheartening, the team found out that they could play with some of the Philadelphia area's better teams.

The Hoopsters then faced a much improved team from the Academy of the New Church, which they handily controlled. Then again Lawrenceville paid a visit and defeated The Hill for the third heartstopping time this year. The Hill then finished the year winning four of the last five games with wins over Swarthmore College, Peddie School, and Williamson Trade. The loss came from another nerve racking game with Malvern Prep.

Although the season was neither a winning nor a losing one, it was successful. The players not only learned what it took to win on the court, but off the court as well. Since the majority of the members were Sixth Formers, they can take the lessons they have learned with them to their respective colleges and leave the underformers with the will to succeed next year The 1985-1986 Varsity Basketball team can be proud of their season.

John H. Woodward Appreciation

In 1965, a special man became part of The Hill experience. With his biting humor, balding head, and infinite enthusiasm, he introduced Third and Fourth Formers to the joys of Ancient History, while making sure the Second Formers' study skills were up to par. In addition, he took the concerns of the Sixth Form to heart and as acted as the College Advisor and Director of Studies. John H. Woodward has been living the Hill School since he was first introduced to it.

Mr. Woodward was raised at and graduated from The South Kent School and attended Trinity College and Boston University, earning both a B.A. and a M.A. degrees.

Mr. Woodward is a tireless worker who has devoted his life to bettering the lives of every Hill student he can reach, especially the underformers. His efforts and willingness to aid the younger students are incredible. For many springs he could be seen out on the far fields coaching the Juniors Baseball team to what was destined to be another loss. But that's O.K.; they learned baseball and they had fun!

As a Foster hallmaster he never said "no" to anyone who needed help, but frequently did to those on his crew who wanted cuts from their morning workjobs. Nevertheless, Mr. Woodward, "Woody," is fully devoted to the student body and makes them the focal point of his ef forts.

He is as complete a teacher as he is a person. No content to teach only Ancient and U.S. Histories, Mr Woodward designed and still teaches his own course o the minorities. He drew up this course at a time when i was not considered fashionable to teach about all th minorities. However, he stuck with his idea and his effort have resulted in one of the most current and popula courses offered at The Hill. It came as no surprise to thos who knew of his work in the History Department when h was named as Chairman of the History Department.

Just recently Mr. Woodward was named by fellow fa ulty to head the Steering Committee, the group that ove sees the evaluation of the school's efforts developed b the Middle States Association. It is one of his greate honors and once again puts him in a position where he ca influence the school.

Whatever Mr. Woodward finds himself doing, he is tru a student's friend. It is with this in mind that we, the Sixt Form and The 1986 Dial, name this yearbook in Appr ciation of our friend, Mr. John H. Woodward.

Recognition Willis J. Pierre

Since he came to the Hill in 1970, Mr. Pierre has been one of the most hard-working and dedicated members of the Hill School community. He has contributed in all areas, from Junior Achievement to casinos to the athletic field; and his work as Director of Studies has been invaluable. But what Mr. Pierre is best known for is his sharp sense of humor and his incredible luck.

Among math teachers, to whom humor is integral, Mr. Pierre is a degree above the rest, surpassing even the mighty Becher. His punishing wit has been a factor in the reduction of several unwary Second Formers into an even lower level of consciousness. His luck is also unequaled. Many a hopeful Hillie has left his Strawberry Festival dice game with empty pockets, and his fellow "Investment Club" members have dubbed him "Fast Willie" because of his prowess at the card table. In an effort to share his wealth of card-playing knowledge, he has founded one of the most renowned gambling establishments in the history of the Hill: Pierre's Poker Palace.

Mr. Pierre's greatest efforts, though, have been reserved for Junior Achievement. Since founding the "pre-Yuppie" club three years ago, he has directed it to much recognition and several impressive awards. Although J.A. is student run, it is Mr. Pierre's expertise that has been the program's real capital.

Counseling is a major part of Mr. Pierre's contribution to the Hill. As Director of Studies, he is the academic advisor to both the students and their parents. He is also responsible for the organization of all faculty and student schedules and is head of the Academic Council, which involves deciding on all independent studies and helping to evaluate them at the end of the year. The new seven-period schedule is also the result of Mr. Pierre's efforts.

At the end of the year, Mr. Pierre will leave the Director of Studies Office to return to the classroom. Therefore, The Dial wants to Recognize Mr. Willis J. Pierre for his unselfish devotion and sound advice.

Mrs. Ryckman Walbridge

Dedication

Those students who have gone through the experience of applying to college know how the pressures and worries can build up. To these students there is a lady in the College Advisor's Office who allays these pressures and worries. She is as knowledgeable in advising students as anyone in the College Advisor's Office. Answering student's questions and keeping the College Advisor's Office running smoothly is a chief concern. She is known as "Mother W" by the College Advisors, for she accomplishes much more than simply secretarial work. Without her, the College Advisor's Office would not be the same.

For the past three years, Mrs. Ryckman Walbridge has been a secretary in the College Advisor's Office. However, there should be another word to describe all the work and effort she puts into her job. She is an expert with procedures and policies. In addition, she has a photographic memory and is a great organizer. She keeps the College Advisor's Office from turning to total chaos.

When a student comes into the office all excited, Mrs. Walbridge utilizes her motherly instincts to instantly calm the student down. "Mother W" is always willing to go that extra yard to help the students, who are her first priority. She even knows the name of every Sixth Former! Her work goes far beyond the daily routine. In fact, she works through vacations so that each student's transcript is in order. Her work, for the most part, goes unseen, but it should not be forgotten by any student who has to go through the College Advisor's Office. Why does Mrs. Walbridge do all of this? There is but one reason; she cares about the students' welfare.

We, the Class of '86 Dedicate our Dial to you, Mrs. Ryckman Walbridge.

THE HILL SCHOOL
POTTSTOWN, PENNSYLVANIA
19464

To the Class of 1986:

For each of you who listens to the nightly news summaries and who reads the newspapers, the world must appear to be a frighteningly bleak place. Between natural tragedies in Mexico, Africa, and Colombia, and the man-made tragedies in Central America, the Middle East, and Ireland, it would seem that only a foolhardy person would choose to join mankind. Far better and more prudent would be for you to adopt a completely self-serving and narrow focus of watching out only for yourself and ignoring all others.

But that is not The Hill's way nor shall it be yours. Through countless and subtle means this faculty and your school have taught that it is your responsibility, even your duty, to lend your strengths and talents to others. You have learned well, for if this class has one distinguishing characteristic it is that of honest concern: concern for fellow classmates, for the younger students, and for the School. Honest, in that your concern is properly pragmatic and rational, not maudlin.

My request to you, therefore, is for each of you to take the compassion that you already have, nurture it, and then share and use it wherever you find unjust actions, meanness of spirit, and narrowness of thought.

In you, The Hill has placed those trusts, those duties that the School's motto codifies in unsurpassed eloquence:

> Finally, brethren,
> Whatsoever things are true,
> Whatsoever things are honorable,
> Whatsoever things are just,
> Whatsoever things are pure,
> Whatsoever things are lovely,
> Whatsoever things are of good report:
> If there be any virtue,
> And if there be any praise,
> Think on these things.

To the Class of 1986, every possible good wish and Godspeed.

Sincerely,

Charles C. Watson

I hope when they look back on my life,
My friends, my family, my wife,
They'll shake their heads and be amused,
At all the privileges that I abused,
I hope they'll remember me,
On this unfortunate date,
Whatever, whenever it may be,
And they'll know that I kept my priorities straight.
But one question will always arise,
The answer one can't realize,
With what thought has he died?
Only fools are satisfied.

I have no yesterdays, time took them away;
Tomorrow may not be, but I have today.
